Word of Dean of Faculty of Nursing

In the name of Allah, and blessings and peace upon Sidena Mohammed, and upon his family and his friends. Praise is to God to for making us among the masters of Science and the pioneers of knowledge.

My graduate students

The faculty of Nursing is one of the faculties of Menoufia University, which is one of the distinguished universities in the Arab Republic of Egypt, is honored to receive students from all Arab and Islamic countries and other nationalities, as part of our belief that education and science have no homeland, as well as being a right for everyone. Therefore, the faculty provides a distinguished service with its master's and doctoral educational programs.

The college is pleased to provide the appropriate environment and the necessary facilities for science students, as it has many faculty members who have received their education from the most prestigious scientific universities, whether inside or outside Egypt. In addition to the technological environment available in the faculty, the University of Menoufia also provides a favorable social environment through the provision of various social and cultural activities, as well as organizing special programs and events in which students find their abilities to work and give. Students also enjoy health and medical care through the University Students and Menoufia University Hospitals.

My sons and my daughters

The scientific research of the higher education institution is the top of the cognitive hierarchy in which perceptions expand, visions are integrated, and the paths to information sufficiency are elevated, thus reaping the desired fruit from knowledge, science, and virtuous human values. It is also one of the main axes of the renaissance of the educational process upon which the educational process for the postgraduate stage is based, as well as the product of the research process, even if it is done in a correct scientific manner and directed to community service, to become a fundamental source for the renaissance of the nation.

In conclusion, we ask God to bless us with steadfastness in serving the nation and knowledge

Dean of the College

Prof. Dr. / Inass Kassem Ali

Word of Vice Dean of Faculty of Nursing

Faculty of Nursing welcomes students from all Arab and foreign countries and because science has no homeland, the post graduate studies sector in coordination with the scientific departments provide an appropriate research environment that helps students in scientific research and overcome the difficulties they face and guide them on how to overcome these difficulties in order to achieve the goals of this sector.

Postgraduate studies are the mainstay of educational development as it represents a continuous period of development in some of the scientific material which are studied by the students and it is the backbone of nations due to the results that improves daily life and achieving the sustainable development of societies. As for scientific research, it is the only window for mankind to economic, social, cultural, political and intellectual progress. Indeed, all scientific revolutions are the fruits of knowledge and scientific accumulation based on the foundations of developing scientific research methodology.

Finally, I wish you success in your studies to be a help to your homelands, and I hope that God will help us to serve you, and the college administration welcomes you at any time for discussion and interaction in order to achieve what you hope from this ancient college.
